

Beverly Wallace

Leadership Development + Executive Coach

Beverly is a certified executive coach with more than 15 years of expertise in executive and leadership development. Her focus is on accelerating the growth of leaders as they drive toward increased business results.

Through her candid and insightful coaching and interactive workshops, Beverly helps leaders enhance team cohesion, increase their influence, executive presence, and communication effectiveness, always keeping the business strategy as the primary goal. She specializes in helping leaders overcome barriers to success and create impactful, sustainable results.

Most recently, Beverly was the Vice President of Executive Development at Prudential Financial, focusing on accelerating high potential leaders' development through challenging program experiences and executive coaching. She also held various leadership, sales, and marketing roles at the Capital Group Companies, Fidelity National Title, Toastmasters International Global Headquarters, and American Airlines.

Beverly is originally from Southern California, where she earned her degree in Organizational Leadership at Chapman University. She is certified in NeuroLeadership Institute's Brain-Based Coaching, Lee Hecht Harrison's Coaching the Coach, the Hogan Assessment Suite, Occupational Personality Questionnaire, KornFerry 360, Learning Agility, and EQ Assessments, and Prosci Change Management.

Beverly has developed leaders in the finance, accounting, insurance, and airline industries in public, private, and nonprofit organizations globally.