

Justine Dinter

Chief People Officer

Breaking Wave (Deutsche Bank)

Justine Dinter is currently the Chief People Officer at Breaking Wave - a fintech owned by Deutsche Bank. Breaking Wave is a brand new business Justine has built alongside the Founder in Deutsche Bank over the last year.

She currently responsible for HR, Culture, Brand and Leadership of the small team in London and the interface for all brand and people topics with our parent group. Justine joined Deutsche Bank in 2018 as Change and Culture Director in the Digital part of the Investment Bank.

Prior to Deutsche Bank, she was Group Head of Talent for Tesco plc, Europe's second largest retailer having held many senior HR roles within the company previously. Before Tesco, Justine worked in a number of HR roles in retail, supply chain and engineering always focusing on culture, talent, people strategy, change, diversity and inclusion.

Justine lives in London with her husband and 16 year old daughter. She loves reading, cooking, running, good food and good wine.